

HEALTH ADMINISTRATION

The Health Administration Department prepares its students and graduates to deliver innovative, evidence-based health and healthcare services in collaboration with communities.

The mission of the Health Administration Department is to deliver high quality education that develops the next generation of healthcare and public health professionals.

Our vision is to develop healthcare and public health professionals who support delivering innovative, evidence-based health and healthcare services in collaboration with their communities.

We offer a master of science (MS) degree in health services administration, a doctorate (EdD) in health administration, and two advanced certificates in health services administration and long-term care.